Bauman L. Belden, Esq.,
Director of American Numismatic Society,
New York City.

Dear Sir:-

Among the assets in the estate of the late Samuel Elmore Wade of this city is a coin collection. I have not seen the collection, but I understand that it it includes in addition to a valuable collection of copper and silver coins some paper scrip. The collection may be worth one thousand dollars more or less.

Very truly yours,

Livingston W. Cleaveland

P. S. I wrote to the State Librarian, George S. Godard at Hartford, but he replies that they are in no position to make any offer for the collection, and refers me to you.

June 23rd, 1913.

Mr. Livingston W. Cleveland,
828 Chapel Street,
New Haven, Conn.

Dear Sir:-

Your letter regarding the coin collection in the late Samuel Elmore Wade's estate has been duly received. I regret to say that this Society does not care to make an offer for the collection. I would, therefore, refer you to the enclose list of coin dealers.

Very truly yours,

Director.
